

Charmaine and her daughter Yvette were sitting on the porch one warm April afternoon. They had already shucked two sacks of oysters and each had a coca-cola - they were feeling pretty good.

“Yvette you’re doing real good in school, but dere is something dey don’t teach dere”, Charmaine announced.

“What’s dat Mamma?” Yvette asked.

“Well girl, you’re 16 now and it’s time I told you dem facts of life”, Charmaine said.

“Oh, dat”, Yvette said.

“You see women sometimes get pregnant and have babies - and de thing dat makes dem pregnant comes from men”, Charmaine started.

“Yes Mamma”, Yvette giggled.

“Men put out dis “pregnancy vapor”, it’s sorta like sweat stink but you can’t smell it. Dey do it all de time but mostly at night - it just hangs around dem in the air. Dis vapor soaks in through de soles of women’s feet and makes dem pregnant”, Charmaine continued.

“You sure about dat Mamma?”, Yvette questioned.

“Of course I am girl”, Charmaine concluded, “When you’re around men you just keep your feet flat on the floor and you won’t get pregnant”.
